To Whom It May Concern,

I am writing to request reimbursement for medical grade skincare products prescribed as part of my patient's dermatological treatment. These products are medically necessary for managing a diagnosed skin condition and are not intended for cosmetic use and instead for treatment of acne, rosacea, hyperpigmentation and chronic sun damage.

These conditions are chronic in nature and may result in physical discomfort, psychological distress, and potential complications if left untreated or inadequately managed.

Based on the patient's medical history and current clinical presentation, the following medical grade skincare products have been recommended as part of the comprehensive treatment protocol:

- Cleansers formulated for sensitive or affected skin
- Medical grade moisturizers, retinoids and vitamin C to restore and maintain skin barrier function
- Sun protection products specifically indicated for dermatologic conditions
- Exfoliating products for controlled removal of dead skin cells

The prescribed skincare regimen has been tailored to address the patient's specific condition(s), reduce symptoms, and prevent further complications. Over-the-counter products have proven insufficient; therefore, these medical grade options are essential for effective management and improvement.

Enclosed you will find: Diagnosis/treatment notes and receipt or proof of purchase. These documents support the medical necessity of the recommended products according to IRS guidelines and plan provisions for FSA/HSA reimbursement.

If you need any additional information or clarification, please contact my office.

Thank you for your consideration.
